Item 8.01 Other Events.

Kindred Biosciences, Inc. ("KindredBio") today made the decision to suspend the company's feline recombinant erythropoietin program following an adverse event. Patient safety is paramount to KindredBio. Given the impact of safety profile on the program's potential commercial value, and amid the continued rapid growth of the canine dermatitis market, the decision has been made to redirect resources toward accelerating the company's programs for canine atopic dermatitis.

KindredBio maintains backup programs for its feline recombinant erythropoietin and may seek to develop these at a later date.
